ABOUT THE AREA

Boracay is widely considered the crown jewel of Philippine tourism, famous for its four-kilometer stretch of White Beach. In 2026, the island continues to thrive as a model for sustainable tourism following its extensive rehabilitation, offering visitors a pristine environment where the sand remains powdery and the turquoise waters are crystal clear. The island is divided into three 'Stations,' each offering a different pace: Station 1 for luxury and privacy, Station 2 for the bustling heart of dining and shopping at D'Mall, and Station 3 for a more relaxed, bohemian atmosphere.

Beyond the iconic White Beach, Boracay offers a diverse range of activities for every type of traveler. Adrenaline seekers flock to Bulabog Beach on the eastern side for world-class kitesurfing and windsurfing, especially during the Amihan (northeast monsoon) season. For those seeking tranquility, Puka Shell Beach at the northern tip provides a secluded escape with its coarser, shell-filled sands and fewer crowds. Sunset paraw sailing—a traditional local sailboat experience—remains a mandatory ritual for anyone wanting to witness the island's legendary golden hour from the water.

The logistics of visiting the island are straightforward but involve a unique multi-modal transfer. Upon arrival at the mainland, travelers must pass through the Caticlan Jetty Port, where mandatory environmental and terminal fees are collected to support the island's conservation efforts. From there, a short 10-to-15-minute boat or ferry ride takes you across the channel to Cagban Port on Boracay. Once on the island, electric tricycles (e-trikes) serve as the primary mode of transport, whisking visitors to their various resorts and hotels.

The nearest and most convenient gateway to the island is the Godofredo P. Ramos Airport, commonly known as Caticlan Airport (MPH). Located just minutes away from the jetty port, it offers the fastest access to Boracay with frequent direct flights from Manila, Cebu, and Clark. While some travelers still use Kalibo International Airport (KLO) as an alternative for budget reasons, Caticlan Airport remains the preferred choice for those looking to maximize their beach time and avoid the two-hour land journey from Kalibo.
