ABOUT THE AREA

Cayo Grape is an island and is located in Atlántico Sur, Nicaragua. The estimated terrain elevation above seal level is -9999 metres.

Nicaragua, set between the Pacific Ocean and the Caribbean Sea, is a Central American nation known for its dramatic terrain of lakes, volcanoes and beaches. Vast Lake Managua and the iconic stratovolcano Momotombo sit north of the capital Managua. To its south is Granada, noted for its Spanish colonial architecture and an archipelago of navigable islets rich in tropical bird life.

Nicaragua is the largest country in Central America and is slightly bigger in area than New York State. The country is bordered by Honduras to the north and Costa Rica to the south. The Pacific Ocean provides the border to the west, and the eastern border of the country is on the Caribbean Sea.

Nicaragua has suffered disasters due to hurricanes, earthquakes, and volcanic activity. Nicaraguans can use the steam from the depths of the volcanoes as geothermal energy. Most people live in the western Pacific lowland region between the Pacific coast and Lake Managua.
