ABOUT THE AREA

L'Isle-sur-la-Sorgue is a Provençal town in the department of Vaucluse, southeast France. It's known for its antiques stores and weekend markets, plus waterwheels on the Sorgue river. Campredon Art Center displays contemporary works in an 18th-century mansion. The Musée du Jouet et de la Poupée Ancienne showcases well-preserved vintage toys and dolls. Collégiale Notre Dame des Anges is a baroque church with frescoes.

L'Isle sur la Sorgue is one of those places in Provence that one has to see. This 'island city' lies at the foot of the Vaucluse plateau in the plains of Comtat Venaissin. The 'bargain hunters', lovers of beautiful objects, flea markets and art galleries will be delighted, there are indeed nearly 300 antique dealers in this small town!

Its colors are nature's green and the bright reflection of the water shining from the several canals running through its center. The river Sorgue surrounds the city as if to hug it. Walking along the canals you will notice how they run between the narrow ancient streets. There are little bridges to cross and great wheels to look at with mossy blades turning in the river.

L'Isle sur la Sorgue is today internationally renowned for the large number of antique dealers spread over the city (open especially on weekends) and for the numerous art and painting galleries. Twice a year, at Easter and August 15, more than 500 antique dealers and second-hand dealers meet here to present their treasures to customers from all over the world ... this fair is enough to make you dizzy, including to enlightened connoisseurs.
