ABOUT THE AREA

Kolasin is a city in the North of Montenegro. Founded by Turks in the 17th century, this small city is one of the must visit places in Montenegro. The restless Rivers Tara and Moraca stream along it and it is surrounded by mountains. Sinjajevina, Bjelasica, Kljuc and Vucje embrace this little city. Kolasin is located at 954m of altitude and offers an excellent vacation in winter as well as summer. Because of altitude and favorable climate, Kolasin is considered an air spa.

A special attraction for tourists is Lake Biograd located in National Park Biogradska Gora which is one of three preserved virgin forests of Europe. Lake Biograd is at 1094m of altitude and around it there are walking paths.

During its three centuries old history, Kolasin, as they say, shared the destiny of the majority of Montenegrin towns, mostly going from the hands of the occupier to the liberating hands and vice versa. This little town is a real curiosity considering the fact that it went 23 times from one hand to the other, was destroyed, and awaited its final liberation from the occupiers in ruins. A special role in the creation of Kolasin, its duration and liberation fight had tribes of people from Rovci, and Moraca, especially during the XVII and XVIII century. The area of the municipality of Kolasin mostly stretches to the middle part of the Republic of Montenegro in middle and upper flows of rivers Tara and Moraca on a total surface of 900 km<sup>2</sup>. There are about 10,000 citizens in this municipality, and in Kolasin, the center of the municipality there are about 3,000 citizens.
