Comprising two-thirds of the island's topography, this rich ecosystem is home to over 210 species of birds, making it a haven for eco-tourism enthusiasts and scientists alike. Adding to its ecological significance, Northeast Tobago was declared a

UNESCO Biosphere Reserve in 2020, further protecting the marine environments of the coral reefs and mangrove habitats in this area. This protected area is also a vital nesting ground for leatherback turtles from March to September each year, a truly remarkable natural spectacle.

A Vibrant Cultural Calendar: Festivals and Sporting Events

Tobago boasts a lively calendar of yearly festivals, including the vibrant Carnival celebrations, the culturally rich Tobago Heritage Festival, and the internationally renowned Tobago Jazz Festival.
