Nestled in the serene countryside near the picturesque villages of Moncarapacho and Santa Catarina da Fonte do Bispo in East Algarve, this stunning contemporary villa is a rare architectural gem. Designed by acclaimed French architect Erik Korchinsky, the home blends modern loft-style living with the tranquillity of rural Portugal.

Architectural Elegance Meets Natural Beauty

This multi-level, semi-loft style home features a spacious and fluid layout with an abundance of natural light, high ceilings, and large windows that frame panoramic views of the surrounding landscape. The thoughtful use of split levels and ceiling heights creates an impressive sense of space, while still maintaining cozy, liveable zones throughout the house.

Internal access to garage on a slightly lower level for convenience and security

Outdoor Living & Natural Landscape

Situated at the end of a quiet dirt track, this private country estate offers complete seclusion.
