Milan - a metropolis for culture, design and quality of life

Milan, the second largest city in Italy, is considered one of the most dynamic and cosmopolitan cities in Europe. It combines historical elegance with modern architecture and is internationally renowned as a center for fashion, design, business and innovation. The city is a magnet for creative people, entrepreneurs, scientists and investors - a place where tradition and the future intertwine harmoniously.

Culture and history

Milan has an outstanding cultural heritage. Important landmarks such as Milan Cathedral, the imposing Gothic building in the heart of the city, the Castello Sforzesco, the world-famous opera Teatro alla Scala or Leonardo's masterpiece "The Last Supper" bear witness to centuries of history and cultural significance. At the same time, modern icons such as the CityLife District or the Porta Nuova skyline with the Bosco Verticale characterize the cityscape of an innovative metropolis.

Economic importance

As the economic capital of Italy, Milan is a leader in the fields of finance, fashion industry, high-tech, media and services. International companies have their offices here, as do start-ups, research centers and universities. The city benefits from an excellent infrastructure and is one of the strongest economic regions in Europe.

Quality of life and lifestyle

Milan offers an exceptional quality of life:

A diverse gastronomic offering - from traditional Lombard cuisine to international star gastronomy

Excellent shopping opportunities between the historic Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II, Via Montenapoleone and innovative concept stores

Numerous parks, cultural events, fairs and festivals that enrich city life

The city is also known for its unmistakable style: Milan is not only the host of Milan Fashion Week, but also the capital of international design with the renowned Salone del Mobile.

Education and research

With institutions such as the Università Bocconi, the Politecnico di Milano and the Università degli Studi di Milano, Milan is one of the most important European university locations. Research, science and technology play a key role in the city's development and attract students from all over the world.

Mobility and infrastructure

Milan offers an excellent transportation network:

Four subway lines (U5 soon to be U6)

Regional and express train connections in all directions

Streetcars, buses, sharing services and an airport network with Linate, Malpensa and Bergamo-Orio al Serio.
