ABOUT THE AREA

Nadroga (officially Nadroga-Navosa) is a prominent province located in the southwestern region of Viti Levu, Fiji's largest island. Renowned for its stunning natural landscapes, the area encompasses the famous Coral Coast, white-sand beaches, rolling inland hills, and the world-renowned Sigatoka Sand Dunes National Park. Its administrative and commercial center is the vibrant town of Sigatoka, which sits along the banks of the Sigatoka River.

The economy of Nadroga relies heavily on tourism and agriculture, earning it a distinct place in Fiji's identity. The coastal stretches feature many of the country's premier luxury resorts and hotels, attracting international travelers year-round. Inland, the fertile Sigatoka Valley earned the province the nickname 'The Salad Bowl of Fiji' due to its massive output of fresh vegetables, fruits, and root crops supplied across the nation.

Culture and heritage run deep throughout Nadroga, where traditional Fijian customs remain actively woven into daily life. The province is famous for preserving ancient crafts, including traditional pottery-making techniques brought by the early Lapita settlers and salt-making traditions. Local residents are noted for their distinct dialect, warm hospitality, and a rich rugby culture that makes the region a powerhouse in Fijian sports.

The nearest primary gateway to Nadroga is Nadi International Airport (NAN), located just north of the province. Depending on your destination within Nadroga, the drive south along the scenic Queens Highway to Sigatoka or the main Coral Coast resorts typically takes between 45 minutes to an hour and a half.

Maui Bay Estates have Freehold titles so is an easier way to buy property in Fiji. The estate had boutique resorts and luxury homes and a extensive expat community. There is a supermarket and restaurants in the Estate. A new children's adventure centre, bowling alley , more restaurants and a water park is under construction.
