Set at the end of a quiet no-through lane, the home enjoys a serene and private setting. The village itself is warm and welcoming, with an active community and a charming bar that serves as the social heart of the area—a great way to meet friendly locals and fellow expats.

Inside, the property offers flexibility and comfort, with three bedrooms upstairs and a fourth on the ground floor, currently used as a dining room. This layout makes it perfect for hosting family and friends or converting into a cosy ground-floor guest suite.

Outside, you'll find exposed stonework and a mature garden that slopes gently down to a peaceful stream, offering uninterrupted views of the surrounding fields—ideal for relaxing with a glass of wine or enjoying outdoor meals in a tranquil setting.

Practical advantages include connection to mains drainage and a roof that was completely replaced in 2006, with a waterproof membrane installed beneath the tiles—providing peace of mind for years to come.
