The Valley Great House, which was originally constructed in the 1850s, is nestled in the tranquil and picturesque Valley of St. George, Barbados. Some sections of this remarkable house date all the way back to 1696, making it a true testament to the island's rich history. This historic plantation home exudes a unique blend of old-world charm and colonial elegance, and it has been carefully preserved and thoughtfully restored over the years—first in the 1980s and again in 2008. While the house has been modernized to include an updated kitchen that caters to contemporary living, it has retained its timeless character, combining the best of both worlds.

Set on a generous 2.5 acres of meticulously manicured grounds, the property provides an exceptional sense of seclusion and tranquility, offering a private oasis away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. The lush, mature trees and vibrant tropical landscaping contribute to the serene environment, creating the perfect setting for relaxation or socializing. The expansive outdoor areas are ideal for everything from intimate family gatherings to leisurely strolls through the beautiful surroundings, providing ample space for outdoor enjoyment.

Inside, the house boasts 4 to 5 flexible bedrooms, along with 4 elegantly designed bathrooms that add to the home's sense of sophistication. Additionally, a self-contained cottage on the property offers extra privacy, making it an excellent space for guests or extended family. There is also an extra bedroom located off the main garage, which provides a secluded retreat for additional guests or staff, ensuring everyone's comfort and privacy.

Blending historic beauty with modern-day comforts, The Valley Great House stands as a unique and rare gem in Barbados. It offers not only a breathtaking landscape but also versatile living spaces, all the while preserving a rich cultural heritage that makes it truly one of a kind.

This is more than just a house—it's the perfect home away from home.
