Description:

In a palazzo in the historic centre, frescoed apartment rich in original features, panoramic terrace, garage and cellar, for sale in Montepulciano. A refined synthesis of the grandeur of historic Tuscan residences and the practicality of contemporary living, enhanced by open, light-filled views, the apartment extends to approximately 200 square metres. The entrance hall and corridors welcome with elegant parquet flooring, lending warmth and continuity throughout. The reception area comprises two generous drawing rooms with double-height ceilings, exquisitely frescoed. Unlike typical rural architecture, elegance here is expressed through smooth surfaces and finely executed pictorial decoration. The sleeping quarters present a harmonious interplay of styles and finishes. The principal bedroom is a charming retreat, distinguished by its original Art Nouveau flooring and an en-suite bathroom. The second bedroom retains the allure of the 1920s, with splendid frescoes and period flooring. The third bedroom is a versatile space, currently fitted with carpet. There are two bathrooms on the main floor: a practical shower room and a second with a bathtub. The heart of the home is the open-plan kitchen, seamlessly integrated with a dining area that opens onto a generous 9-square-metre terrace. This outdoor setting—an exceptional rarity within historic town centres—affords uninterrupted views across the rooftops and surrounding countryside, making it ideal for al fresco breakfasts and dinners. The residence is further enhanced by an 88-square-metre cellar on the lower ground floor, complete with an independent external access, as well as a 33-square-metre garage. Benefiting from a magnificent panoramic terrace and the amenities included, this distinguished home is equally suited as a primary residence for lovers of history or as an exclusive holiday retreat in one of Tuscany's most sought-after locations.
