ABOUT THE AREA

Founded in 331 BCE by Alexander the Great, Alexandria is Egypt's second-largest city and a legendary Mediterranean powerhouse. Once the intellectual heart of the ancient world, it was home to the Great Library and the Pharos Lighthouse, one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. Today, the city maintains a distinct cosmopolitan flair, blending its storied Greco-Roman past with a relaxed seaside atmosphere that feels significantly different from the frantic energy of Cairo.

The city's coastline is dominated by the Corniche, a sweeping waterfront promenade that stretches for miles and is lined with 19th-century architecture, old-world cafes, and sandy beaches. Key historical landmarks include the Citadel of Qaitbay, a 15th-century fortress built on the site of the ancient lighthouse, and the Bibliotheca Alexandrina, a stunning modern tribute to the original library. Below the surface, the Roman Catacombs of Kom El Shoqafa offer a fascinating look into the city's ancient burial traditions and multicultural heritage.

Modern Alexandria is a vital economic hub, serving as Egypt's main port and a favorite summer destination for locals seeking the Mediterranean breeze. It offers a unique mix of traditional souks and upscale shopping malls, alongside a vibrant culinary scene famous for its fresh seafood. The city's trams, some of the oldest in the world, still rattle through the streets, providing a nostalgic way to navigate between the bustling city center and the tranquil gardens of the Montaza Palace.

Travelers can access the city through two primary gateways. The nearest airport is Borg El Arab International Airport (HBE), located approximately 40 kilometers (about 45 minutes by car) southwest of the city center; it serves as the main international hub for the region. Additionally, while Alexandria International Airport (ALY)—also known as El Nouzha—is located much closer to the heart of the city (about 7 kilometers), it has historically seen limited commercial use compared to Borg El Arab. For those coming from the capital, Cairo International Airport (CAI) is about a three-hour drive away.
