Authentic Dalmatian Estate with a View of the Sinj Field A plot of land located in a peaceful and natural setting is for sale, ideal for those seeking privacy, an authentic Dalmatian atmosphere, and the potential to restore a traditional stone estate. Part of the land is registered as forest, while another part is classified as a garden. The property includes old stone houses and ruins with a total footprint of approximately 182 m². Potential for Restoration and Tourist Use The existing buildings are in a dilapidated condition but represent an excellent opportunity for reconstruction in an authentic traditional stone style. The property offers the possibility of creating an exclusive holiday home, a private family estate, or a tourism-oriented project while preserving its original Dalmatian character. The terrain is gently sloping and has access to an asphalt road, adding practicality and easy accessibility. Additional value is provided by the privately owned forest area of approximately 347 m², ensuring privacy and a natural environment, while the opposite side offers an open view of the Sinj field. Peaceful Location Close to All Amenities The land is situated in the last row of houses, guaranteeing extra peace and privacy, making it ideal for escaping everyday city life. All essential amenities such as a school, church, shops, and supermarkets are available nearby, while Sinj and the town center are only a few minutes' drive away. For any additional information or to arrange a viewing, we are at your disposal. In case of brokerage services provided by our agency, an agency commission fee applies.
