About the Area

Newcastle County Down is a beautiful and historic county in Northern Ireland, situated along the eastern coast of the country. It is known for its stunning scenery, including the Mourne Mountains, Royal County Down Golf Club, and Tollymore Forest Park. The county is also home to a number of charming towns and villages, such as Newcastle, Rostrevor, and Kilkeel.

History

The area now known as Newcastle County Down has been inhabited since prehistoric times. The Celts were the first people to leave a lasting mark on the county, and their presence can be seen in the numerous ancient monuments that are scattered throughout the landscape. In the 5th century AD, Saint Patrick brought Christianity to the area, and the county became a center of monasticism. The Normans arrived in the 12th century and built a number of castles in the region, including Dundrum Castle and Newcastle Castle. The county remained under English rule until the 1920s, when it became part of Northern Ireland.

Economy

The economy of Newcastle County Down is diverse, with a strong focus on tourism, agriculture, and manufacturing. The county is home to a number of large employers, such as Caterpillar and Seagate Technology. Tourism is also a major industry in the county, with visitors drawn to the stunning scenery, the Royal County Down Golf Club, and the many historical attractions. Agriculture is also important to the local economy, with sheep and cattle farming being the mainstays of the industry.

Attractions

Newcastle County Down is home to a number of popular tourist attractions, including:

- The Mourne Mountains: The Mourne Mountains are a range of granite mountains that dominate the landscape of the county. The highest peak, Slieve Donard, rises to 850 meters above sea level.
- Royal County Down Golf Club: Royal County Down Golf Club is one of the world's most prestigious golf courses. It has hosted the Walker Cup on four occasions and the Irish Open on five occasions.
- Tollymore Forest Park: Tollymore Forest Park is a large park with a variety of activities to offer visitors, including walking, hiking, cycling, and fishing.
- Newcastle: Newcastle is a charming seaside town with a number of historical attractions, including Newcastle Castle and the Ulster Museum.
- Rostrevor: Rostrevor is a picturesque village situated on the shores of Carlingford Lough. It is known for its stunning scenery and its many pubs and restaurants.
- Kilkeel: Kilkeel is a fishing town with a vibrant harbor. It is also home to the Mourne Maritime Museum, which tells the story of the fishing industry in the Mourne Mountains.

Transportation

Newcastle County Down is well served by a network of roads and buses. The county is also home to two airports, Belfast International Airport and George Best Belfast City Airport.

Overall, Newcastle County Down is a beautiful and welcoming county with a rich history and a diverse economy. It is a great place to live, work, and visit.
