a discerning buyer with a vision for transformation. This substantial six-bedroom townhouse presents a unique and compelling opportunity to acquire a significant piece of Brussels real estate, ripe for either a magnificent family home restoration or an astute conversion into multiple high-quality apartments. Offering an abundance of flexible living and bedroom space spread across its several floors, this property is a blank canvas brimming with potential, already benefiting from significant initial renovation work.

Imagine the possibilities within this classic Brussels townhouse. Its inherent architectural charm, typical of the city's elegant residential buildings, provides a solid foundation for creating a truly exceptional living environment. Each level of the property boasts its own dedicated outdoor space, a rare and coveted feature in central Brussels. To the front of the house, two charming balconies offer delightful spots to enjoy the streetscape and capture the ambiance of this desirable neighborhood. To the rear, a secluded garden provides a tranquil oasis, complemented by a substantial terrace – an ideal setting for al fresco dining, entertaining guests, or simply unwinding in privacy.

The current owner has undertaken a significant partial renovation, strategically designed to facilitate either the creation of a grand family residence or the seamless conversion into three independent apartments. This thoughtful initial investment offers a considerable head start for the new owner, saving valuable time and resources. The completed works include the installation of modern double-glazed windows throughout, ensuring energy efficiency and noise reduction. A comprehensive first fix of the electrical, plumbing, and heating systems has been carried out, providing a robust infrastructure for future customization. Furthermore, the property already features three well-appointed bathrooms, plus an additional ensuite bathroom, offering convenience and flexibility for a large family or multiple occupants. Efficient gas boilers have been installed to provide reliable heating and hot water.

The roof has undergone a complete overhaul, a crucial element in preserving the structural integrity and value of the property. On the upper level, a former servants' or attic room has been fully insulated and transformed into a comfortable space, complete with its own ensuite bathroom and new skylights, flooding the area with natural light. This versatile room could serve as a private guest suite, a home office, or a secluded retreat.

The basement level presents a valuable and usable space, currently awaiting imaginative reinvention. With direct access to the small courtyard garden at the rear, this area holds significant potential for a variety of uses, such as a recreational room, a home gym, a workshop, or additional storage. A touch of creative design could transform this lower level into a truly functional and appealing part of the property.

Beyond the considerable merits of the house itself, its location is undeniably one of its most significant assets. Situated in the heart of Brussels' prestigious European Quarter, residents will enjoy unparalleled access to the vibrant and cosmopolitan lifestyle this area offers. Within a mere ten-minute walk in one direction lies the hub of European political life, including the European Commission, alongside the picturesque squares of Ambiorix and Marie-Louise. The Schuman Metro station, a major transportation link providing easy access to the entire city, is also within easy reach. The area is also well-served by a plethora of bars and restaurants, catering to a diverse range of tastes and preferences.

In the opposite direction, just a two-minute stroll away, lies a quieter square, offering a more relaxed atmosphere. Here, residents will find a convenient bus stop, providing further transportation options, as
