- Located directly at Helmholtzplatz in one of Prenzlauer Berg's most desirable residential pockets, the apartment enjoys a vibrant yet community-focused neighbourhood atmosphere. The area is known for its leafy squares, cafes, boutiques, and family-friendly vibe. Excellent public transport connections via nearby tram and U-Bahn lines provide quick and easy access to the wider city. Everyday shopping, restaurants, and weekly markets are all within immediate walking distance, making this both a highly convenient and deeply charming place to live.

This charming period apartment is situated on the 4th floor of a well-maintained residential building dating back to 1900 and benefits from the comfort and convenience of a lift. Offering approximately 104 m² of living space, the home impresses with its generous layout and classic historic character. Three well-proportioned rooms create a bright and spacious atmosphere, ideal for relaxed everyday living.

Typical period features high ceilings, original wooden floorboards, and large windows enhance the property's inviting ambiance, flooding the rooms with natural light. The spacious living area provides versatile furnishing options, while the separate kitchen, equipped with a built-in kitchen, offers ample room for a comfortable dining space.

The modern bathroom includes both a bathtub and a separate shower, adding to the apartment's practical appeal. Thanks to its well-thought-out floor plan, the property is perfectly suited for couples, small families, or owner-occupiers who value generous living space and the timeless charm of a classic period home.
