A farmhouse with 7000m$^2$ of land and 160m$^2$ of built-up area can offer a variety of opportunities depending on what you want to do with it. Here are some possibilities:

Agricultural Cultivation: With such a large area, you could dedicate part of the land to growing food, such as fruits, vegetables, or even medicinal plants. This can be either for your own consumption or for sale.

Livestock: If you prefer to raise animals, such as chickens, sheep, goats, or even some larger animals, such as cows, some of the land could be dedicated to grazing.

Leisure Space: With so much space, you could create outdoor play areas such as gardens, an orchard, a barbecue space, a swimming pool, or even hiking trails.

Rural Tourism: You could consider turning it into a country house or rural tourism, offering lodging for visitors who want to experience life in the countryside.

Sustainable Projects: You could also explore sustainable projects, such as installing solar panels for power generation, rainwater harvesting systems, or even creating an edible garden that requires less water.

Organic Garden: If you're interested in organic farming, you could create a certified organic garden, catering to the growing demand for healthy and sustainable food.

These are just a few ideas to make the most of a property with these characteristics.
