In this house we show the possibility of a project to be developed, being sold structurally as it is. However, some renovation work is already being carried out, and the great advantage is that the future owner can customize a project with materials to taste for his new home. Even if we negotiate the possibility of developing the project together with the owner.

The villa has a bedroom and a bathroom, as well as a kitchenette, perfect for creating a modern and practical environment. The terrace and rooftop offer stunning views of the countryside and mountains, ideal for enjoying moments outdoors and enjoying the sunset. The solar orientation to the south ensures excellent luminosity throughout the day, making the environments even more pleasant.
