ABOUT THE AREA

Located in the province of Rizal, Mambugan is a vibrant barangay situated in the suburban city of Antipolo, Philippines. Positioned along the foothills of the Sierra Madre mountain range, it serves as a transitional zone between the fast-paced, urban environment of Metro Manila and the cooler, elevated landscapes that Antipolo is celebrated for.

As one of Antipolo's bustling residential and commercial districts, Mambugan features a blend of gated housing subdivisions, local shops, and commercial centers. Major thoroughfares like Sumulong Highway run directly through or near the area, making it a critical transit route for commuters traveling between the higher parts of Rizal and neighboring cities like Marikina and Pasig.

Accessibility has significantly improved over recent years with its proximity to modern public infrastructure, including the LRT Line 2 extension terminus at Antipolo Station in nearby Masinag. Residents and visitors benefit from easy connections to shopping malls, educational institutions, and popular eco-tourism spots across Antipolo, such as scenic view restaurants and nature resorts.

For travelers coming from afar, the nearest airport to Mambungan, Antipolo City is Ninoy Aquino International Airport (MNL) in Pasay/Paranaque, Metro Manila, situated roughly 20 to 25 kilometers (12 to 15 miles) away.
