About the Area

Mount Moreland is a quiet rural community located in the inland, elevated countryside of Saint Catherine Parish, Jamaica. Tucked away from the bustling coastal resort towns, the area is characterized by rolling green hills, rich agricultural land, and a peaceful atmosphere that offers a authentic look at traditional Jamaican rural life.

The local economy and daily rhythm in Mount Moreland revolve predominantly around farming and small-scale agriculture. The fertile soil and tropical climate support the cultivation of various local crops, including ground provisions, fruits, and vegetables, which supply neighboring towns and local markets.

In addition to its agricultural roots, Mount Moreland benefits from its proximity to major urban centers within the parish, such as Spanish Town and Linstead. This location allows residents and visitors to enjoy the tranquility of a secluded hillside environment while maintaining relatively easy access to essential commercial services, schools, and transportation networks.

The nearest major airport serving Mount Moreland is Norman Manley International Airport (KIN) in Kingston, located approximately 45 to 55 kilometers to the southeast. For domestic or private aviation, Tinson Pen Aerodrome in Kingston is geographically closer, while international travelers visiting northern coastal destinations may also utilize Ian Fleming International Airport (OCJ) near Ocho Rios.
