Omschrijving:

At the heart of a wine-growing environment, discover this former stone wine cellar offering exceptional volumes and rare potential for transformation.

With a potential surface area of approximately 650 m2, spread over the two existing levels, with the possibility of considering the creation of a third level, this property represents a genuine opportunity for an investor or project developer.

Its generous volumes allow for a wide range of possible layouts: a character property, the creation of several apartments, a rental investment, a main residence with independent spaces, or a fully bespoke property project.

One of the property's real assets is located at the rear: a private garden of approximately 42 m2, already existing on the first floor, providing a rare and intimate outdoor space, sheltered from view.

As part of a renovation project, this area could be fully enhanced and, subject to the necessary planning permissions, complemented by a rooftop terrace on the upper level, designed to remain discreet and not visible from the street.

The ground floor offers particularly interesting volumes for the creation of parking spaces, a large garage, or technical and communal areas.
