Le Moulin
Vire en Champagne
Pays de la Loire
72350
France

An extraordinary opportunity to own Le Moulin (The Mill), a magnificent 500-year-old stone farmhouse set on nearly four hectares of lush countryside in Vire-en-Champagne, Pays de la Loire. Built over five centuries ago, this historic estate harmoniously combines authentic French heritage with modern comfort, having been lovingly restored over the past twenty years to like-new standards. Constructed of natural stone, warm timber, and traditional stucco, the home features fully insulated walls and floors, a roof completely replaced just seven years ago, and custom double-glazed windows and doors crafted by local artisans.

Approaching the property along a quiet country road, a quaint hillside chateau signals your arrival at the estate. A large driveway offers ample parking for at least three vehicles, leading around to a charming stone path and the main entrance. You are welcomed into a large ground-floor dining room anchored by a traditional wood-fired oven, perfect for cooking evening meals or entertaining guests. Adjoining this room is a practical pantry leading into a spacious cellar with abundant room for wine and utilities. From the landing, the ground floor continues into a recently renovated room with a wood-paneled ceiling and bare stone walls—ideal as a guest room or lounge—along with another expansive living space and a large bathroom featuring a walk-in shower, toilet, and sink.

The stairs lead up to the main floor, the true heart of the home. Here, a sliding door opens into a vast living room boasting smooth stucco walls, exposed beams, rich wooden parquet flooring, and a powerful wood stove capable of heating the entire level. This floor hosts a sunny bedroom with an en-suite bathroom complete with a shower, bath, and vanity, as well as an adjacent room accessible via double doors that can function independently or join to form a grand bedroom suite. A further stone-walled room with parquet flooring serves as an ideal home office or fourth bedroom. The kitchen is equipped with dishwasher, induction hob, oven, and custom wooden cabinetry hand-crafted by local artisans, flowing into a secondary dining room complete with its own cozy wood stove. Above, the expansive attic spans the entire footprint of the main floor; because the roof was recently renewed and thoroughly insulated, this space is primed for conversion into extra guest quarters.

Surrounding the house is nearly four hectares of private fields, pastures, and woodland that create a peaceful, self-contained ecosystem. A small, meandering river flows through the grounds, attracting diverse local wildlife including kingfishers, herons, squirrels, foxes, and deer. Multiple large storage sheds and hangars across the property have also been recently updated with heavy, handmade oak doors. Positioned just ten minutes from the motorway, twenty minutes from a direct train station to Paris and Nantes, and forty-five minutes from the historic city of Le Mans, this property offers an enchanting sanctuary within easy reach of regional attractions, chateaux, and major transport hubs.
