Description:

This is a prestigious property surrounded by greenery, in the foothills, overlooking the sea, is set in an amazing location. It is close to both Castagneto and Bolgheri, famous for their wines. The main house is on three levels, with a large main apartment, guest apartment and rooms for staff and a small detached annex.

This ancient manor once belonged to an important noble family. It was built on the ruins of an ancient residence of the Roman era. The area, in fact, has been the subject of extensive archaeological studies and in 1869 a valuable mosaic floor of Etruscan-Roman origins was discovered, it can now be found in the Archaeological Museum of Volterra.

The buildings cover an area of 1,100 sq.m. and apart from the main house also includes a small private chapel and two detached buildings for a custodian and a farm help, both in habitable condition. The property has a lovely and ample wrought iron gazebo, an old bread oven, a clay tennis court, a beautiful garden and an ancient olive grove of about 27,500 sq.m.
