ABOUT THE AREA

Pedasí is a town and corregimiento situated on the south-eastern tip of the Azuero Peninsula on Panama's Pacific coast. It is the capital of Pedasí District in Los Santos Province. The influx of expats also makes Pedasí life interesting: retirees looking for a beachside retreat, real estate pioneers, young couples looking to be entrepreneurs in a laid-back environment. This blend of North Americans, Spaniards, Italians, Israelis and more also happens to be the majority of owners of restaurants, hotels and tour-based activities in the area. Most expats have integrated into the community, providing a pleasant community lifestyle. With a town as tiny as Pedasí, you'll definitely meet at least a few expats who swapped their lives from abroad to this fishing town, giving you another insight into this area.

And what is the draw? Pedasí is really a beautiful location- pristine and quiet- with many activities to offer. Head out for deep sea fishing tours, day excursions to the white sand beaches of Isla Iguana (as shown in the above photo) or surf the 5-ft overhead waves of Playa Venao. Grab a book and head out to a secluded beach. Enjoy whale and turtle migrations, horseback riding, paddle boarding, vinyasa yoga, a tour of Varela & Sons rum factory, local cuisine and scuba diving. Or just sit back: listen to the area's howler monkeys and sounds of tropical wildlife, enjoy the vast starlit summertime sky, and watch the large cruise and container ships migrate to and from the Panama Canal. This is the place to relax.

The town is known for its beautiful beaches, including Playa Pedasí, Playa Arenal, and Playa El Jicaral. These beaches offer opportunities for swimming, surfing, sunbathing, and enjoying water sports. The crystal-clear waters of the Pacific Ocean are also ideal for snorkeling and diving. Pedasí is a cultural hub, with a vibrant arts scene and a thriving community of artists and musicians. The town hosts various cultural events throughout the year, including art exhibitions, music festivals, and traditional celebrations. With its friendly locals, delicious cuisine, and affordable cost of living, Pedasí is an ideal destination for those seeking a peaceful and authentic Panamanian experience.
