Pratdip is a municipality in the comarca of Baix Camp, in the province of Tarragona, Catalonia, Spain.

Most of the people of Pratdip work in agriculture in the pastures, fields, and forests around the village. Prominent local agricultural products are hazelnuts and almonds.

L'Hospitalet de l'Infant, Catalonia, Spain is coastal suburb of Tarragona, inside the municipality of Vandellòs i l'Hospitalet de l'Infant and southwest of Baix Camp. The town center is on a rocky promontory flanked by an extensive beach and crossed by the Llastres River.

L'Hospitalet de l'Infant is a small town located on the wonderful Costa Dorada, belonging to the municipality of Vandellòs, just 30 minutes by car from its capital, Tarragona..

First, its beautiful landscape: in L'Hospitalet del Infant, you can enjoy the mountains and the sea at the same time, as well as the contrasts of colors and nature. The offer of fun does not leave anyone out and satisfies all needs, from families with children to groups of friends who want a more festive holiday.

Its friendly inhabitants, the commercial and leisure offer and its spectacular beaches make tourists enjoy both its cosmopolitan and modern coastal environment, as well as experience its most traditional and natural essence.

L'Hospitalet del Infant will enchant you with its deepest essence. From its cozy surroundings to its traditional festivities and its flavors of homemade and typical cuisine, full of aromas of the sea, vegetables from the land and wines from the innerlands.

For those who love adventure, in L'Hospitalet del Infant, they can enjoy virtually unspoiled beaches, where it's possible to hear the sound of the waves, while you breathe in the air of the valley. And for those who love the mountain, a few minutes by car or public transport, you can enjoy trails and magical landscapes, the extraordinary richness that this place offers.

About the Area

Tarragona is a province of eastern Spain, in the southern part of the autonomous community of Catalonia. It is bordered by the provinces of Castellón, Teruel, Zaragoza, Lérida and Barcelona and by the Mediterranean Sea. The province's population is 795,902, about one fifth of whom live in the capital, Tarragona.

Located in the east of Spain, in Catalonia. The coast is identified with the Costa Dorada tourism brand. The capital is the city of Tarragona, home to the Roman archaeological complex of Tarraco, declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

The Cistercian monastery of Poblet is also a World Heritage Site. You can explore it by doing the Cistercian Route, which takes in the monasteries of Santes Creus and Valbona de les Monges.

The province boasts several natural parks that offer the perfect environment for participating in outdoor sports.

Some of the culinary highlights include the wine-related activities, especially the Penedés Wine and Cava Routes. There are also numerous gastronomic festivals held in the province where you can sample regional recipes such as calçotada and xató.
