ABOUT THE AREA

Ruimsig is a beautiful suburb located in the West Rand of Johannesburg, South Africa. It's known for its tranquil atmosphere, spacious properties, and abundance of green spaces, making it a popular choice for families and professionals alike. Here's a glimpse into what makes Ruimsig so special:

- * Natural Beauty: Ruimsig is surrounded by nature, with the Walter Sisulu National Botanical Garden nearby, offering residents easy access to stunning landscapes, hiking trails, and diverse flora and fauna. The suburb itself is also well-maintained with parks and gardens, creating a peaceful and serene environment.

- * Activities and Recreation: There's no shortage of things to do in and around Ruimsig. From exploring the botanical garden and enjoying outdoor activities to visiting the nearby Silverstar Casino for entertainment, residents have plenty of options for leisure and recreation.

When it comes to the nearest airport, Ruimsig is conveniently located close to:

- * Lanseria International Airport (HLA): This is the closest airport to Ruimsig, making it easy for residents and visitors to travel to and from the area. It offers both domestic and international flights, connecting Ruimsig to various destinations.

While Lanseria is the closest, Johannesburg's OR Tambo International Airport (JNB) is also within reasonable driving distance and offers a wider range of international flights.

Overall, Ruimsig is a desirable suburb offering a high quality of life with its natural beauty, strong community spirit, and convenient access to amenities and transportation.

Today, Little Falls is just down the road from Ruimsig and accompanying suburbs like Allen's Nek, Wilgeheuwel, Radiokop and other places that have mushroomed here as Jo'burg spreads its boundaries. Ruimsig manages, thankfully, to retain much of that countryside feel and is home to the Roodepoort Country Club, said to be one of the most challenging championship golf courses in the country, with no fewer than 72 bunkers and seven water hazards, designed by Gary Player.

As its name suggests, Ruimsig (a mixture of the Afrikaans 'uitsig' and 'ruim,' playing on the idea of views and space) has superb views over the west of Johannesburg and manages to retain a wonderful bird life, possibly because of the presence of the greens of the golf club.

Staying here brings you but a stone's throw from the Walter Sisulu National Botanical Garden, one of the most beautiful and popular green spaces in the city, with a backdrop of the beautiful Witpoortjie waterfall, which not only draws people to its shallows but is also home to a breeding pair of Verreaux's eagles on the cliffs alongside. If you can get there during the week, rather than over the weekend when everyone else heads out here, then exploring the gardens and paths is a wonderful way to wile away hours. You can also venture up alongside the waterfall onto the Roodekrans Ridge.

Just a little further back towards town are the Clear Water Mall and Hillfox, whilst following your nose further along the M47 takes you on towards the Cradle of Humankind and the Magaliesberg.
