The focal point is the private swimming pool, a luxury feature that offers exclusive enjoyment and relaxation under the Gambian sun. Surrounding the pool is a well-maintained private garden, creating a lush, peaceful atmosphere. For socializing, the property includes a charming Banta Bar, an ideal spot for enjoying sunset drinks or hosting gatherings with friends. The entire external area is a self-contained oasis, providing a perfect balance of outdoor living space and tropical landscaping.

Versatile Extra Accommodation and Facilities

Adding to the property's incredible value and utility are several versatile outbuildings and facilities included in the sale price. To accommodate staff or offer additional storage, there are dedicated Boys Quarters. Furthermore, for guests or as a unique, rustic rental opportunity, the compound features a traditional Grass House. This extra accommodation, though simple, provides valuable flexibility, whether it is used for overflow guests, a private retreat space, or as part of the overall rental offering. ABOUT THE AREA

The Arajanna – Beachside area near Sanyang, The Gambia, is highly regarded as one of the most idyllic and tranquil stretches of the country's 'Golden Coastline.' Sanyang itself is a traditional fishing village located in the Kombo South District, a region famed for its pristine, unspoiled beaches, which include Pelican, Osprey, and the famous Paradise Beach. Arajanna, being the beachside section, offers residents and visitors a peaceful escape from the more developed tourist hubs further north. The area is characterized by golden sands, crystal-clear Atlantic waters, and a backdrop of lush coastal vegetation, making it a perfect retreat for those seeking authentic relaxation, nature walks, and a genuine immersion into Gambian coastal life away from the main resort crowds.

The local environment and culture around Arajanna are rich and distinctive. While the wider Sanyang village maintains its authenticity with a bustling local market and traditional activity, the beach side has seen the careful development of high-quality, private residences and eco-lodges that cater to a more discerning clientele. The community is predominantly made up of farmers and artisan fishermen, which lends a vibrant, culturally rich atmosphere to the area. Visitors can observe the daily spectacle of colourful Gambian pirogues returning with their catch at the nearby fish centre, which is a major draw for photographers and those interested in local commerce. The surrounding wetlands and inland lagoons, often fringed with mangroves, also make the area an excellent spot for birdwatching and nature enthusiasts.

Investing in a property like a detached bungalow in the Arajanna area offers a superb blend of secluded, high-quality living and strategic coastal positioning. Unlike the mass-market resorts, properties here are often built to a higher standard and enjoy private amenities, such as swimming pools and reliable infrastructure like boreholes and mains electricity connections, reflecting their exclusivity. The appeal of the area is further solidified by its increasing popularity with expatriates and visitors looking for a quiet, long-term base or a rental property that capitalises on Sanyang's reputation as one of the most beautiful and tranquil beaches in the country, ensuring strong demand and a stable investment in the burgeoning Gambian real estate market.

For international travel, the region is highly accessible. The nearest airport to Sanyang is Banjul

International Airport (BJL). Located in the nearby town of Yundum, the airport is approximately 30 kilometres (around 14–18 miles) by road from the Sanyang area. This proximity allows for a relatively short transfer time of about 30 to 45 minutes by taxi, providing a convenient gateway for residents and guests arriving from Europe and other international destinations. The easy connection to the country's primary air terminal ensures that Sanyang, despite its secluded, beachside feel, remains well-connected to the rest of the world.
