Description:

All the construction and services are complete; what's left is the part everyone dreams about: choosing and designing the interiors to make this house your home.

Imagine walking into a brand new 5,500 sq ft home where all the hard work is finished – and the interiors are still completely yours to create. The Cavendish Nuuhaus is a six-bedroom, six-bathroom luxury home built by the winner of Build Magazine's Best Luxury Sustainable Homes Developer 2025.

The structure, roof, windows, services and smart home infrastructure are complete; what remains is the exciting part – selecting the kitchen, bathrooms, flooring and finishes that reflect how you want to live. Instead of compromising on someone else's choices, you start with a fully built, high spec home and work with Nuuhaus and our partners to create a one off interior that feels unmistakably yours. Think statement kitchen with a large island for family breakfasts and late night drinks, spa style bathrooms where you can switch off at the end of the day, and a principal suite that feels like a boutique hotel. Cinema room, playroom, home office – the spaces are here, ready to be shaped around your life.

With six generous bedrooms and six bathrooms, this home is designed for modern family living, entertaining and long weekends at home. Large open plan areas flow towards the garden, creating a backdrop for birthdays, Christmases and everyday moments.

This is not a basic "shell" – it's a completed, future ready luxury home where the infrastructure is done right from the start, and the interior story is written by you.

This Cavendish NuHaus isn't just a large house with nice finishes. It's a next generation home where the smart and sustainable infrastructure is already in place – and the interiors are still yours to design. You're not paying to retrofit technology later or rip out someone else's choices. You start with a future proof base and layer your own interior style on top. Traditional luxury homes ask you to accept someone else's layout, finishes and technology.

NuHaus flips that on its head: the construction, services and smart/sustainable infrastructure are complete, the home is Lutron ready and future proofed, and the interiors – kitchen, bathrooms, flooring and finishes – are left for you to design.

You get the speed and certainty of a finished build, the comfort of award winning sustainable design, and the creative freedom to make every room feel like your own.

If you can picture your family here – walking the space, choosing finishes and planning how each room will feel – we'd love to show you around and talk through interior options.

*Please note: All images and floorplans are for illustrative purposes only and may not reflect the final specification. Layouts, finishes and fixtures are subject to change.

This property is offered for sale at £1,000,000 in its current stage of development, giving a buyer the opportunity to complete the interior to their own specification. The asking price reflects the level of progress achieved and the remaining works required to finish the home.

The vendor is also willing to undertake the completion works on a separately costed basis, should a purchaser prefer a finished product. Any completion costs will depend on the specification and extent of works requested by the buyer.
