The property stands out for its authentic character and the typical charm of historic stone buildings, with architectural details that tell a story made of tradition and solidity. The property is developed on two main levels, plus a large basement cellar and an attic floor, offering generous and versatile spaces, ideal for the creation of a prestigious residence.

The interior spaces are characterized by important volumes and significant heights, increasingly sought-after elements that make it possible to enhance the brightness and design spacious living solutions, even with mezzanines or double-height areas.
