Description:
A Grand Apartment on Cadogan Place

Set within a distinguished Grade II-listed building, this expansive apartment unfolds across two floors and spans over 3,700 sq ft. Laterally converted across two townhouses, the home balances modern luxury with period elegance, offering soaring ceilings, grand proportions, and access to the private gardens of Cadogan Place. On the raised ground floor, light pours through tall sash windows into a formal dining room overlooking the square. Beyond, a vast bay-fronted reception room opens through French doors onto a private terrace, a clever connection between refined interiors and outdoor space. Period details, intricate cornicing, marble fireplaces, and generous ceiling heights, lend the rooms an air of timeless sophistication. The lower ground floor centres on a superbly proportioned kitchen and breakfast room, designed for both informal family dining and entertaining, with direct access to a private patio garden. Here too is the principal suite, an exceptionally spacious retreat with its own sitting room, dual bathrooms, and a walk-in wardrobe. A further bedroom opens directly onto the garden, alongside a second reception room and additional bathrooms, offering unusual flexibility for guests or family. Throughout, contemporary comforts, including air conditioning, have been discreetly woven into the historic fabric. The result is a residence of immense character and comfort.

Cadogan Place itself is one of London's most prestigious addresses, developed by the Earl of Cadogan in the 18th century and centred on a rare private garden square. Residents enjoy tennis courts, a dog park and a children's playground within its leafy grounds, while beyond the square lie the boutiques of Motcomb Street, the restaurants of Elizabeth Street, and the world-class shopping of Knightsbridge. Iconic cultural landmarks such as the V&A are moments away.
