ABOUT THE AREA

The pleasant town of Bar is literally the first port of call for many visitors to Montenegro, thanks to regular ferry connections with Italy. While the beach is rocky and there are no real attractions in the centre, it's worth at least an afternoon thanks to the magnificent ruins of Stari Bar - stari means old - which sit 5km up the hill. The beauty of its setting is quite staggering - sheer cliffs surround this old town on all sides, and tiny farming communities dot the valleys below. Fragments of pottery found in the area date it as far back as 800 BC, though it wasn't until the sixth century that the Byzantine Empire created what you see today; the destruction also in evidence was caused during the Ottoman resistance battles of the 1870s. A trip to Stari Bar should set you back no more than €5 by taxi.

With gentle azure waters and buzzing beaches, Bar, Montenegro, is a seaside spot with plenty of jaw-dropping nature just outside of the city. Lake Skadar National Park, home to the largest lake in the Balkans and a wealth of wildlife, is a short drive away. The green slopes around Bar are scattered with ancient monasteries, pretty vineyards, and villages where life is slow.

Culture and history are present, too. If you enjoy delving into a destination's past, Stari Bar, the picture-perfect old town, is a must-visit, while lazy beach days are encouraged on the coast. From sunbathing and swimming to simply strolling the marina and enjoying local cuisine from a shady spot outside, Bar is a dream destination for travelers who enjoy the heady scent of summer.

Bar, Montenegro, is an unsung resort town on the country's south coast. Nestled between breathtaking mountains and the glistening Adriatic Sea, Bar offers plenty of culture and history to discover, nature right on its doorstep, and a string of pebble beaches to relax on.

While Bar may not be as well known as, say, Kotor or Budva, two of Montenegro's most well-known destinations, travelers will find an authentic atmosphere here, and plenty to see and do during a short visit. There's sizzling weather, too, with 270 days of sunshine every year.
