Description:

There are houses that catch our attention. And there are others where we imagine, almost without realizing it, what it would be like to live there.

This apartment was entirely rethought so that each space had a purpose: to create a bright, balanced, timeless and comfortable home.

The kitchen opens onto the living room around a generous island in natural Lioz stone. In the center, the fireplace, also covered in natural Lioz stone, was designed as an architectural piece that gives identity to the space without taking away its serenity.

Light travels through the house throughout the day and the large windows frame a wide and unobstructed view over the treetops. A view that is difficult to find in Carcavelos and that is part of the experience of living here.

With two bedrooms, two bathrooms and a parking space, this apartment combines quality materials, a careful organization of spaces and a project designed to last.

Inserted in an area in clear appreciation, marked by the development of new high-quality residential developments, it benefits from the proximity to beaches, schools, shops, services and the main accesses.

There are beautiful houses. And there are houses where everything makes sense. This is one of them.

See you soon!

Finishes: aluminum windows with double glazing and thermal cut, thermal shutters, fully equipped kitchen and premium flooring Corkart 9681 in natural cork, ensuring comfort, energy efficiency and excellent thermal and acoustic insulation.
