About the Area

Nestled along the tropical coastline of Paraiba state in Northeastern Brazil, Tambaba is one of the country's most captivating and iconic coastal destinations. Located within the municipality of Conde, roughly 30 kilometers south of the state capital, Joao Pessoa, Tambaba is celebrated for its untamed natural splendor. Dramatic multicolored sandstone cliffs, lush Atlantic Forest vegetation, towering coconut groves, and warm turquoise ocean waters frame a serene landscape that feels genuinely removed from urban crowds.

Tambaba holds a unique place in Brazilian travel culture as the first official naturist (nudist) beach in Northeastern Brazil, sanctioned by local decree in 1991. The area is thoughtfully split into two distinct sectors separated by natural rock formations. The initial stretch of coastline is a traditional, fully clothed public cove featuring calm waters and picturesque tide pools. Past a monitored gateway lies the 900-meter dedicated naturist sanctuary, where social nudity is mandatory and governed by a strict code of conduct designed to preserve a safe, respectful, and family-friendly atmosphere.

As part of a designated Environmental Protection Area (APA), Tambaba offers abundant opportunities for eco-tourism and outdoor relaxation. At low tide, natural swimming pools form right between the sea rocks, creating crystal-clear basins filled with marine life. Visitors can hike along cliffside trails to panoramic viewpoints like Mirante de Tambaba, sample local seafood at quiet beachfront stalls, or venture into neighboring coves such as Coqueirinho and Tabatinga.

Access to the region is seamless via the paved PB-008 coastal highway. The nearest airport to Tambaba is Presidente Castro Pinto International Airport (JPA), located near Joao Pessoa, roughly 40 kilometers (about a 40-minute drive) to the northwest. Travelers seeking broader international flight schedules can also utilize Recife/Guararapes-Gilberto Freyre International Airport (REC), situated approximately 115 kilometers to the south in the neighboring state of Pernambuco.
