With its glorious natural scenery, excellent climate, welcoming culture and excellent standards of living, France is quickly gaining a reputation as one of the most desirable places across the world to live or visit. On offer here is a chance to make a smart financial investment in this magnificent part of the world.

This pretty little barn is situated in a quiet hamlet. It has up to date outline planning permission.

The barn has has some work started but in actual fact, is still at a stage where you could design as you wished. The first floor has now got a floor with a staircase to it. There are veluxe windows up here.

Downstairs, currently designed as entrance hall, kitchen/diner to the left and lounge are to the right. There are some radiators in situ but no boiler or hot water tank.

The front half of the roof is the original roof but the back is new. There is some electrical wiring but as yet, not connected up. This barn has the great advantage of already having permission to change it to living space.

All of the land is at the side of the property to the left hand side. There is mains drainage there that you would need to connect to. A great project to make your own.

ABOUT THE AREA

Badecon-le-Pin is situated in the Indre department and Centre-Loire Valley region. Indre is a landlocked department in central France named after the river Indre. The inhabitants of the department are known as the Indriens and Indriennes.

Indre is a department in central France named after the river Indre, it is part of the current region of Centre-Val de Loire and is surrounded by the departments of Indre-et-Loire, Loir-et-Cher, Cher, Creuse, Vienne, and Haute-Vienne. The prefecture (capital) is Chateauroux and there are three sub-prefectures at Le Blanc, La Chatre and Issoudun. Indre is one of the original 83 departments created during the French Revolution in March 1790, by order of the National Constituent Assembly. The new departments were to be uniformly administered and approximately equal in size and population to one another. The department was created from parts of the former provinces of Berry, Orlonais, La Marche and Touraine. The capital and largest town in the department is Chateauroux originally called 'Chateau Raoul'.

To the north of Indre lies Loir-et-Cher, to the east Cher, to the south lies Creuse and Haute-Vienne, to the southwest lies Vienne, and to the northwest lies Indre-et-Loire. Most of the department is relatively level plains in the broad Loire Valley
