Description:

Halo of Cerritos 303 Elevated Above It All With the East and Middle Buildings now completely sold out Halo of Cerritos moves into its final phase with the West Tower. Positioned significantly higher on the hillside the West Tower begins two floors above the Middle Building creating a dramatic new vantage point over Cerritos and the Pacific beyond. Unit 303 takes full advantage of that elevation offering spectacular unobstructed ocean views and just under 1 700 square feet of total indoor outdoor living space. Oversized sliding doors connect the expansive terrace with the open concept kitchen dining and living areas creating a bright seamless space designed around the view. The West Tower also introduces an updated design and floor plan while maintaining the high end finish level that has defined Halo. Natural parota wood cabinetry premium fixtures quality materials and a clean modern Baja aesthetic come together throughout the residence. And buyers no longer have to rely solely on renderings. Halo's beautifully completed showroom provides a tangible look at the quality design and attention to detail being delivered in the finished product. One of the West Tower's biggest advantages is its easy upper level access with parking located above and convenient access to the residences without having to climb the hillside from below. Unit 303 also includes its own private storage cabana ideal for surfboards beach gear bikes and personal storage. As the West Tower rises the views only get better with the upper residences ultimately capturing 360 degree views across the Pacific mountains and surrounding Baja landscape. Halo's resort style amenities will complete the experience including an infinity pool hot tub day beds yoga space BBQ area poolside restrooms underground storage and parking all within a boutique development just above world famous Cerritos Beach. With the first two buildings sold out the West Tower represents the final opportunity to own at Halo of Cerritos. Elevated views easier access larger floor plans resort amenities and a thriving surfside community come together in one of the most exciting new residences in Cerritos.
