Your new home – or business opportunity – may be right in the heart of Gorski Kotar. The village of FUŽINE is located at 730 meters above sea level. The climate is a continental variant of the Mediterranean with particularly beautiful spring, summer and autumn and snowy, often long winters. The average annual air temperature is 7.6 degrees Celsius. In summer, temperatures rarely exceed 30°, and warm nights are almost nonexistent. Therefore, the climate in summer is extremely pleasant, as are the stable winter days with plenty of snow. Fužine is known for its clean mountain air, which is tirelessly cared for by the bora, which is the prevailing wind for anticyclones. From the surrounding peaks (Bitoraj 1385 meters, Viševica 1428 m, Tuhobić 1106 m, Preradović 885 m) there are beautiful views of the picturesque forested areas of Gorski Kotar and the surrounding area: lakes, the villages of Vrata, Lič and Fužine, the karst Lika field, but also the sea, the coast and the Kvarner islands. You will always find something for yourself in Fužine. The summer months are reserved for active outdoor activities, while the winter months are particularly notable for the New Year's concert of the Wind Orchestra as well as the original Farewell to the Old Year in the open air, every December 31st at noon.
