The department of Pyrenees-Atlantiques is situated in the Aquitaine region of South-West France, it is called Pyrenees-Atlantiques due to its geographical location being bordered by the Atlantic Ocean to the west and the Pyrenees mountains to the South. Given the proximity with Spain, this department has always conserved special economical and cultural links with the neighbouring country.

Pyrenees-Atlantiques included the former provinces of Bearn, Gascony and Guyenne. The southern part of the department forms the homeland for the French Basque community. The Basques have a long tradition in this part of France and this presence is very evident in the local Basque language, history and local culture.

Thanks to quality accommodation and cheap flights to the Pyrenees airports of Pau & Biarritz, the Pyrenees-Atlantiques is increasingly appealing to holidaymakers, nature lovers and property purchasers from France and abroad.
