Hafling - The sunny high plateau above Meran

Hafling (Italian: Avelengo) is picturesquely situated on a sun-drenched high plateau above the spa town of Meran in South Tyrol, at around 1,300 meters above sea level. The municipality has around 800 inhabitants and belongs to the Burggrafenamt. Nestled in an impressive natural landscape with wide meadows, dense forests and a magnificent panorama of the Texel Group, Hafling stands for tranquillity, closeness to nature and a high quality of life.

Hafling is particularly well-known as the home of the world-famous Haflinger horses - a robust, good-natured and versatile breed of horse that originally comes from this region. Riding stables, paddocks and traditional farms still characterize the townscape today and underline the close connection to agriculture and rural life.

Despite its manageable size, Hafling offers an excellent infrastructure: charming inns, upmarket hotels, modern chalets and direct links to the Meran 2000 ski area and hiking paradise make the village extremely attractive for both locals and guests. The proximity to Merano/Meran - just a 15-minute drive away - also ensures excellent connections to city amenities, culture and health facilities.

Whether as a starting point for sporting activities in summer such as hiking, mountain biking or horse riding, or as a winter destination with guaranteed snow: Hafling impresses all year round with its natural beauty, tranquillity and authentic South Tyrolean lifestyle.
