Informação adicional:

With a total area of 4,800 m², this land stands out for its natural surroundings and strategic location, representing an excellent opportunity for those looking for tranquility, quality of life and contact with nature.

Inserted in an area of rare beauty, surrounded by agricultural fields, vineyards and green hills, it is mostly classified as a forest area, offering a privileged setting for projects related to leisure, nature or a more sustainable lifestyle.

The land also has a small plot inserted in an urban fabric, with the possibility of building a house with an implantation area of less than 60 m², according to the planning instruments in force. This possibility is subject to confirmation and approval by the competent authorities, not dispensing with the prior consultation of the City Council.

The West region has been asserting itself as one of the most sought-after areas to live and invest, combining heritage, natural landscapes and a high quality of life.

In a context in which contact with nature, sustainability and well-being are increasingly important in purchasing decisions, properties with these characteristics become increasingly valued assets.

Reguengo Grande offers a calm and welcoming environment, ideal for those looking for a refuge in the middle of nature, a second home or an investment with potential for appreciation.

The rural surroundings, marked by green spaces and natural landscapes, invite you to a quieter lifestyle, without giving up the proximity to services, the beaches of the Silver Coast and the main access roads. If you are looking for a plot of land with an excellent natural setting, a generous area of 4,800 m² and the potential to develop a project according to the characteristics and urban framework of the place, this may be the ideal opportunity.
