Informação adicional:

This semi-detached villa, currently under construction, is located in Gambelas, Faro, just minutes from the University of the Algarve, the private hospital, the airport, the beach and all essential amenities. Designed by OpenLab Architects with a contemporary architectural language, the house is arranged over three levels, including a basement, with clean lines, large glazed openings and a private pool that runs along the main facade.

The ground floor is built around an open-plan living and dining area with direct access to the outdoor terraces and pool, alongside a bedroom, kitchen, pantry and guest toilet. The first floor holds two further bedrooms plus the primary suite, which comes with its own covered private terrace and dedicated storage. The basement, at around 174 m² of gross area, includes an enclosed two-car garage, additional covered parking, a laundry room, a guest toilet and generous storage space, taking care of day-to-day practicalities.

The interior is finished in a calm, contemporary style: neutral tones, natural wood, large-format stone flooring and marble-clad bathrooms, with a freestanding tub and double vanity in the primary suite. Large glass doors on the ground floor open fully onto the terraces and pool, blurring the line between inside and out, while the first-floor bedrooms benefit from generous private terraces overlooking the surrounding landscape. The villa carries an A+ energy pre-certificate, the result of a design focused on thermal efficiency, with reinforced wall and roof insulation, a solar thermal panel and thermally broken double-glazed windows.

With completion expected and set within a quiet residential area that's nonetheless extremely well connected, this villa suits both a full-time residence close to schools, the hospital and the airport, and an investment with strong rental potential given the location. Proximity to Faro, the University of the Algarve and the beaches of the Ria Formosa makes for a practical, comfortable way of living in the Algarve.
