This town, despite being small in size, has a unique charm and cultural richness that attracts visitors looking for a more traditional and peaceful environment. It is located approximately 7 km northwest of Sagres, one of the most emblematic locations in the Algarve, known for its historical role in the Portuguese Age of Discoveries. It is a region of gentle hills, with a magnificent coastline that offers breathtaking beaches and stunning coastal scenery. Nearby beaches include Praia do Amado, known for its waves ideal for surfing, and Praia da Ingrina, with its calm waters and peaceful coves.
